Cumulative Index of Contents

E K I S T I C S, January – December 2003, vol. 70

Each article with its full title is recorded upon three lines and cross-indexed by author, country, and up to four keywords indicating its main contents – by ekistic unit, ekistic element, historical period, and geographical location.

These keywords are followed by one or more letters to indicate the contents of each article further in terms of diagrams, illustrations, maps, references, statistical tables, etc. (see p. 389).

SUBSCRIPTION RATES FOR 2005

Herewith is information on the various ACE publications and subscription rates for the following two periodicals.

EKISTICS: The Problems and Science of Human Settlements – six issues per year.
The particular contribution of the Journal EKISTICS is that it contains original articles providing up-to-date information pertaining to the development of human settlements from a variety of fields (Social Sciences, Economics, Environment, Physical Planning, Biology and others). The information is simultaneously classified on the Ekistic Grid according to the five Ekistic Elements and their subdivisions, as explained on the special pages. Each issue is devoted to one particular subject. One or more issues may cover the activities and scientific studies of the Athens Center of Ekistics carried out during the year; other issues may contain the discussions which take place during the International Programs organized by the Athens Center of Ekistics or other organizations focusing on the study of Human Settlements.
ISSN 0013-2942; 2005 Volume 72.

EKISTIC INDEX OF PERIODICALS – two issues per year.
Each issue consists of a list of cross-referenced articles (by author, country and subject) from several hundred periodicals, concerning all fields of human knowledge, published in approximately 60 countries. The selection is based on the interest of the articles to planners, architects, social scientists, engineers, economists, ecologists, environmentalists and others concerned with developments in the field of Human Settlements – large and small, rich and poor _ in the past, present and future.
ISSN 0013-2934; 2005 Volume 39.

The annual subscription rates (in US Dollars) valid for 2005 are as follows:

EKISTICS	US$150.00	(US$100.00 student rate)*
EKISTIC INDEX of Periodicals	US$200.00	.

Single back issues of EKISTICS can be obtained at US$25.00 and double back issues at US$50.00, if still in stock. Triple issues of EKISTICS for the current year can be obtained at US$75.00.
